in spite of the unpropitious weather which prevailed on Sunday last, and also of the fact that there were two other preaching services in the city, the Methodist church was filled with two attentive audiences which listened closely to the pastor as he dealt with his previously announced subject, "The Mystery which is Ourselves." Men of various denominational beliefs expressed themselves appreciatively concerning Dr. Mather's presentation of his subject, some thinking that these two sermons took 'high-water-mark' among the important utterances which he had given since coming to Marion.

Dr. Mather announced at the evening service that on Sunday next, Feb. 19th, his theme will be "Christ and Abnormal Life," a subject of much more than ordinary interest in these days.

Oratorical Contest.

The annual Oratorical Contest will be held in the Auditorium, Wednesday evening Feb. 22nd. at 8 o'clock. This is the first time the contest has been held exclusively for young men. There are five contestants, from seniors and one sophomore. They medal for oratory, which is given by our townsman, T. H. Cochran. Those who attended the Girls' Declamatory on Feb. 13th, will not like to miss this contest. There will be added interest because the young men will be judged on the originality of their compositions as well as on delivery. The orchestra will furnish the music for the evening. Admission fifteen cents for school children and teachers, and twenty-five cents for all others. The now. proceeds go the school improvement fund.

The following program will be rendered:

1. Lincoln, the man, -Thomas Mather. 2. Lee, the Patriot,

TOBACCO SEED

We Are In Receipt Of

The Following Letter

Marshal Jenkins, Esq.,

Marion, Kentucky. Dear Mr. Jenkins:-

that the farmers in your County have unfortunately gotten hold of 'one sucker tobacco seed," which is not the best variety for English to-Sixth Grade: - Ernest Harp, baccos, and I have decided to Ida Ralston, Madaleine Harp, send some "Tennessee Red and Blue Prior" seed there, that the farmers may have if they wish. I am looking for this seed each day, having ordered it from a first class firm in Virginia and I believe the crop would be vastly benefited by a change of seed. Would you mind notifying the farmers that this seed will, no doubt be in Marion by the end of the week, and they can have same by calling at the factory where our Mr. Wheeler will wait on them. The tobacco seed has gotten so mixed in your County that the farmers do not get the best results from their crops, and I think it would be greatly to their advantage to change their seed, and as sometime, I would advise them to hold up sowing; such as want it, so as to get some of the variety I have ordered.

Upon inquiry as to the stage she was amazed to hear that an antomoblle now made the journey to the Pork In five hours and that it left humedistely after the midday meal.

At 2 delock, as the car came to the door, she entered it with a sense of having stepped from one luvading charlot of progress to another, so big and shining and up to date was its glitterlag body, agleam with brass and glowing with brave red paint.

As they whirled undly down the valley the girl was astonished at the transformation in the hot, dry land. Wire fences ran here and there, inclosing fields of alfalfa and wheat where once only the sagebrush and the greasewood grew. Painted farmhouses shone on the banks of the creeks and irrigating ditches flashed across the road with an air of business and decision.

There was only one thing to be done, and that was to make herself known. She retraced her steps, pulled open the bro ken screen door and entered the cafe. It was a low, dingy dining room tilled with the odor of ham and bad coffee. At the tables ten or lifteen men, a motley throng, were buslly feeding their Ross Cavanagh, the ranger in the dis- voracious jaws, and on her left, belain? a showcase illled with cigars, stood her mother, looking old, unkempt and worrled. Upon this a mutter of astonishment arose, and the walter girls, giggling, marveling and envlous, paused, their platters in hand, to exchange comment on the newcomer's hat and gown. A cowboy at the washing sink in the corner suspended his face polishing and gaped over his shoulder in sflent ecstasy. Some of the men came forward to greet her, and, though she had some difficulty in recognizing one or two of them (so hardly had the years of her absence used them, she eventually succeeded in placing them all. At length her mother led her through the archway which connected the two shantles, thence along a narrow hall into a small bedroom, into which the western sunset fell. It was a shabby place, but as a refuge from the crowd in the restaurant it was grateful. Lize looked at her daughter critical-"I don't know what I'm going to do with a girl like you. Why, you're purty-purty as a picture. You were skinuy as a child. "I am, but I didn't want you to come !

)ack. Lay off your things and come but to supper We'll talk afterward."

The eating house, the rooms and hallways were all of that desolate shabbiness which comes from shiftlessness joined with poverty. Everything on which the girl's eyes fell contrasted strongly with her aunt's home on the Brandywine-not because that house was large or luxurious, but because it was exquisitely in order and sweet with flowers and dainty arrangement of color.

She regretted Litterly that she had ever left her eastern friends. Her mother, in truth, showed little pleasure at her coming and almost nothing of the Illness of which a neighbor had written. It was, indeed, this letter which had decided her to return to the west. She had come, led by a sense of duty, not by affection, for she had never loved her mother as a daughter should-they were in some way antipathetic-and now she found herself an unwelcome guest.

With aching head and shaking knees Virginia re-entered the dining room, which was now nearly empty of its "guests," but was still misty with the steam of food and swarming with flies These pests buzzed like bees around the solled places on the tablecloths, and one of her mother's first remarks was a fretful apology regarding her trials with those insects, "Seems like you can't keep 'en out," she sald.

With desperate effort Lee conquered her di gust. "Never mind; I'm tired and a little upset. I don't need any dinner." Hastlly slipping a cup of coffee, she tried hard to keep back the tears, but falled, and no sooner did her mother turn away than she fled to her room, there to sob unrestrainedly her despalr and shame. "Oh, I can't stand It!" she called. "I can't, I can't!" She felt herself alien and solltary la Lize was touched by this action of her proud daughter and smiled sadly. "This is no place for you. It's notifing but a measly little cow town gone to seed-and I'm gone to seed with it. I know it. But what is a feller to do? I'm stuck fiere, and I've got to make a llving or quit. I can't quit, so I stagger along."

"I've come back to help you, mother. You must let me relleve you of some of the burden." "What can you do, child?" Lize asked gently. "I can teach."

"Not in this town you can't."

"Why not?"

"Well, there's a terrible prejudica year. The Wetherfords aln't among the first circles any more."

Lee Virginia remembered Gregg's yon?" she asked.

Lize was evaslve. "Since I took to running this restaurant my old friends kind of fell off, but never mind that tonight."

"Yes, but it was a new place away down in the Panhandie and nobody I knew lived there. And I never knew anything more. Well, I must go back into the restaurant. I hain't got a girl I can trust to count the cash."

Left alone, Lee Virginia wept no more, but her face settled into an expression of stern sadness. It seemed as if her girlhood had died out of her and that she was about to begin the same struggle with work and worry which had marked the lives of all the women she had known in her child-

Flourspar, in general, is associated with three genetic types: repeats and (3) thermo-aqueous deposit, which correspond to three mineralogical types—(1) tin, (2) gold-Illuride and (31 spathic lead-zine deposits. The occurrence of these type increases from first to third, t spathic lead-zine deposits being several times as alumdant as the other two. The western Kentucky deposits clong to the third class.

The wall rocks of the district form in accessible source of calcium for, the fluorspar, but do not carry appreciable fluoring. The dike rocks carrying, as they do, phlogopite and patite, two throring-bearing minerals, nggest the parent magma as the ikely source of the fluorine, the fluorine, the fluorine being brought up in rmal solutions as an after effect of the cruption. It was probably brought up in the form of silico-forendes of lead, zinc, copper, calimm, barium etc. (salts of 112SiF6 Vg.), as first suggested by Dr. 11 Foster Bam. The greater number of faults and ssures in the district, the majority which carry werkable shoots to depth of at least 1,000 feet, make rtain a large possible tonnage of norspar-enough to supply all likely American demand for at least six enturies to come. Locally, the lissures carry barytes shoots; but compared with thorspar shoots they are small in number, though at times of great width (20 feet or more). The by-product lead and zine is often sufficient to add materially to the profits. while in some veins, shoots in which lead and zine predominate would pay to operate on their own account. The parts of the district and where the Sauders flotation process makes nossible the separation of Ilucropar from zine blende; a custom mill would be able to operate profitably on such ores. The district lacks adequate feet and in extreme eases up to forty transportation facilities and suffers from freight rate discrimination The foregoing is a brief summary of the detailed work which the writer has done in the district and which is fully covered in two bulletius prepared for the Kentneky Geological survey, one of which, Bull. 9, "Kentucky Fluorspar Deposits," was recently reviewed in this journal, and the other, "Lead, Zinc and Spar Deposits of Western Kentucky," covering the geology, mine descriptions, etc., together with detailed maps, is still in the hands of the printer.

Of our beloved brother, Mr. Mrs. J. L. Rogers is very sick at for Water Town, Tenn., to make it M. B. Rushing, a strict member of our noble order, the F. E. & J. C. Adams visited friends and rela- C. U. of A; was struck by onek of the Illinois Central's heavy Miss Grace Hill, of this place, visited engines which crushed his skull killing him instantly. On Dec. 25th 1910, the accident occurred.

Bro. Rushing was born in Crittenden County, Ky., and was a good law abiding citizen, he was well liked by all that knew him. He was born January 8th 1868; and was married to Miss Alice Campbell on May the 9th 1894, to the happy couple there was five children born, of this number one is dead and four are living, this has been a happy home from the day of their marriage until God saw fit to call the dear husband and father from their presence which was a sad parting indeed.

Rosolved: That in the death of our brother we recognize the hand of a Father who knows best the time to call his children home, he knows what fruit is ready for the heavenly garner. Resolved:-That in the death of our worthy brother, our Lodge sustains a loss of a worthy member and a true friend to its entire membership.

Resolved:-That we extend to his wife and family our heartfelt sympathy and pray Gods blessings to rest upon them. Resolved:-That these resolutions be spread upon the Lodge to his wife and the same be published in our county paper the Record-Press. John Tyre, J. F. Brasher, R. W. Peterson and Octava Peter-
